

PROVIDED CONTENT · SOURCE MATERIAL 3

Stakeholder Email

Project requirements and constraints from the requesting business unit

To

Instructional Design

From

Director, Customer Experience Enablement

Subject

FlexLine Business Credit — Launch Readiness Training

Hi,

We're preparing Customer Experience for the upcoming FlexLine Business Credit launch and need a learning solution ready before representatives begin supporting customers.

A few requirements to keep in mind:

The core learning experience needs to fit within approximately 20 minutes. That's a firm operational constraint because we need to incorporate it into our existing onboarding curriculum without extending training time.

The same learning solution will be used for two audiences:

- New hires who may have little or no previous experience with our financing products.
- Tenured representatives who already understand our existing products and primarily need to learn what's different about FlexLine.

We don't have the capacity to maintain separate versions, so the solution needs to work for both groups.

Please prioritize the information representatives are most likely to need during customer conversations rather than attempting to reproduce the entire product brief.

For less-common questions and edge cases, representatives can use the full product documentation available in our Internal Knowledge Base.

Because the pilot generated several questions that representatives struggled to answer consistently, we'd also like the learning experience to include some form of realistic customer practice.

If possible, please provide a concise reference resource representatives can use after training while assisting customers.

Thanks,

Morgan Lee
Director, Customer Experience Enablement